

HOBO TOURS

In Search of the
American Dream

In Search of the American Dream

A friend dropped me a note this AM on what they have been doing while piddling about the flat:
"I stayed up all night playing poker with tarot cards. I got a full house and four people died."
Remind me never to play cards with this person...
NO! Not ever...OK???

In Search of the American Dream

Today, it all seems like a half remembered dream or a distantly recalled scene from a vaguely registered advert designed to play upon the deepest fears of anyone awake at 2:30 AM watching the tele.

“Yes! You too can become rich and famous by sending away for your

In Search of the
American Dream
personally designed course in the lost arts of (no money needed) real estate speculation or in how you can really obtain a genuine degree in "Advanced Nuclear Particle Acceleration" or in air conditioning/heating while studying in the privacy of your own home.

In Search of the American Dream

These were the days when working at home was an exotic career choice for the fabulously wealthy or the exclusively unemployed...as this is several years before Georgie Bushie's Frat Brothers pulled up giant U-Hauls to the US Treasury and looted it much as Chaney and his

In Search of the American Dream

happy band of Oil Execs, Defense Contractors and his Iraqi Gangster Minions equally looted the Iraqi Treasury and then sold all the oil to Standard Oil at a bargain rates (Hey... they claimed it's fitting cause as Chaney told us:
"We needed to move it for some quick cash as you

know Democracy don't come cheap and there weren't any Iraqi Politicos willing to let us put this on our American Express Card!"

Chaney never gets proper credit for being the global mastermind in the popular formulation of the Chaney Doctrine which took a

In Search of the American Dream

prosperous country where even the poorest were middle-class by American standards (as the gov't freely offered a universal income to all citizens from the oil revenues – which we illustrated as proof of how misguided their gov't was) and reduced it to a nation where even the richest

became beggars to their new master overlords.
We did this by making their money worthless by printing 10-20-times more money than they had the economy to support (flash forward 20-years to the new People's Republic of Amerika...are they doing it here...now?)

In Search of the American Dream

all because the Chaney Doctrine's main point was a classic Keynesian Economic Theory dealing with the truth that rich people are much harder to control than are poor people and to which Chaney added that poor, starving people will do whatever you tell them.

In Search of the American Dream

If I had not recently discarded my decorative tinfoil hat to the dustbin this would be the perfect segway to insert my observation(s) as many of these same players are back on the field and regardless of what most thought; they did learn from all those years of the Iraqi War and

In Search of the
American Dream

seem to have not wasted all those years in exile as they have gotten their second wind working for our own Little Joey Buyhim and his boy DeHunter but this time their expertise is completely domestically focused with Americans growing poorer with every day!

In Search of the American Dream

In olden days, I would have (already) sounded the dire warnings but (again) my tinfoil hat is long gone to a nearby landfill that seems to be creating mini-earthquakes due to the leaking of it's methane gas surplus – shame we can't tap that and make our community

In Search of the
American Dream
energy independent from all those cheap (poorly made) Green Solar Panels made by China Inc.
“Could have, should have” don’t matter now as the no-bid contracts have already been signed, sealed (with proper kickback to locals or so the radio said) and delivered with some

In Search of the American Dream

assembly required and a very restrict warranty (that require you ship them back to China at your own cost).

Of course...that was then and this is now.

These fotos are of that age and time and served as a perfect segway into the new Great Depression of

In Search of the American Dream

2008 where all of the greedy bankers, hedge fund traitors and the Governor Mit's (still can't use his full name due to being sued by his campaign staff as his full name seems to have been copyrighted and trademarked) of our nation fleeced what little was left and the Bushies gave them

In Search of the American Dream

their "Get Out of Jail" card better know in the media as "Too big to fail!"

This was the time that I found myself stuck deep in the middle of all this because I got a commission for a not-to-be-named Obama Supporter (had to sign a non-disclosure agreement that is still in effect)

In Search of the American Dream

to make comical videos about Grandy Pappy
McCain and Little Sister Sara for the relatively new forum of the Youbie Tubbie.

I had developed a new method of animating still fotos that in their original form were very lifelike and this was where the trouble began with the RNC and

all those overly sensitive staffers of Governor Mit who claimed that since my comical videos were too lifelike and might confuse their voters (besides the Governor's argument that since his name was trademarked...I needed his permission to use). I dually countered that the comedy came from how I actually collected the crazy things that Grand Pappy McCain and crew were actually saying and put it into a singular video.

They tried very hard to cancel me, sue me and banish me from all proper society...Cancel Culture's Grand daddy...ya think?

In Search of the American Dream

Back in those early days, corporate media was still taking baby steps as their AI had not become self-aware making them our new, corporate overlords as the self-proclaimed owners of the internet and decider of truth; so, they actually took a middle ground and helped to negotiate an agreement between all of the interested parties.

The agreement was that I would redo the animation to a level where even Little Stevie Wonder would understand that they were looking out a cartoon and not a actual CNNister News Breaking
News Video.

In Search of the American Dream

This was actually harder than you would think and greatly hurt my ability to make a proper royalty off my technique.

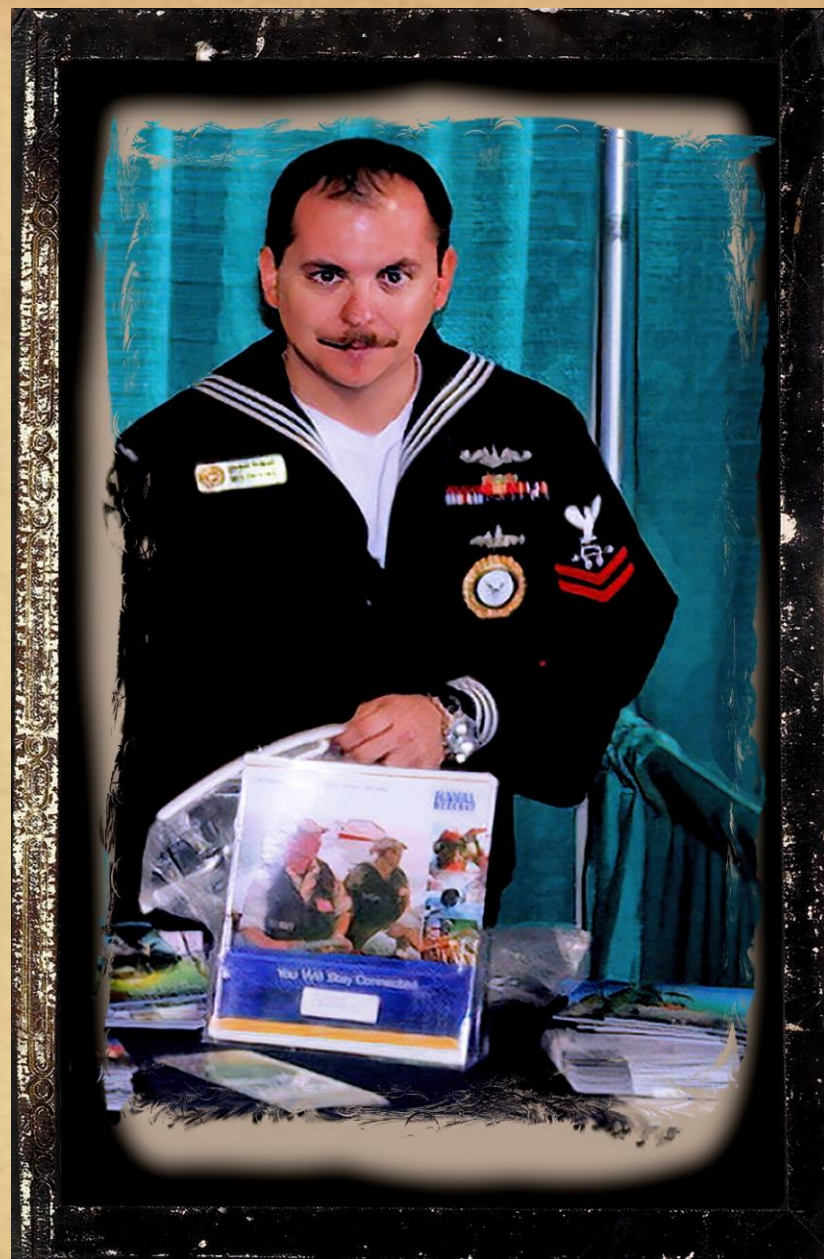

On top of that, the video's featuring Governor Mit's full name needed to be edited in order to stop his staff to call off their pretty lawsuit... Greedy Boogers!

In Search of the American Dream

While most videos were actual statements by Grand Pappy, I do admit that there was the one video about all the eerie reflection(s) of the 1932 election of Von Hindenburg /Hitler election had to this 2008...it might have been over-the-top (a bit!) but it was scary in how many things lined up between Von Hindenburg and Grand Pappy McCain...like that video about Kennedy and Lincoln...remember???

The other thing that I need to be truthful was of my own doing as I discovered soundboards (ancient audio clips to be cut-N-pasted) for Charlie Manson (ever

In Search of the
American Dream
heard his music album that he made when his was gigging with the Beach Boys? I still send it out as an X-Mas present!) and was blown away by how closely he and Georgie Bushie sounded alike.
Down right scary in how much they sound a like!
So I made a video where he

In Search of the
American Dream
was reacting to how badly Little Sister Sara had thrown him under the bus at the VP Debate again Little Joey Bayhim (this time without his boy DelHunter).
To this day, I still get emails saying that I should pull down that video because it seemed the President was upset and

In Search of the American Dream

may have started to drink again.

To this day, they haven't caught the joke even when I tell them up front.

For some rhyme or reason(s) unknown to me, Youbie Tubbie still has not pulled that page down...maybe, some old timers have not forgotten that Georgie was

and is (after all these years) still considered to be a war criminal by Interpol – this is why you never see him leave North America.

Whatever the reason(s), you can go and still see the very dumbed down videos @ Norrthslope21 on the Yubbie Tubby...

Seems that I (again) am

In Search of the American Dream

very good at hijacking my own story and as I can see that there are ONLY a handful of the most have tramped so far, deep into this very swampy tale.

My main point was lost about five or six pages ago and even I am not sure how to make a literary u-turn

In Search of the
American Dream

and try to get this story back on the road to Tulsa...

Maybe, try changing the radio station?

Nothing but static and the crackle of the shortwave...

Doesn't seem we will be getting Radio Australia, tonight!

OK! I remember NOW!
Back in the campaign as

many of you history buffs know that the economy did a great swan dive off the roof of the Goldman Shack's (misspelled on purpose to avoid any threat of lawsuits or restraining orders) turning into an ugly belly flop onto the consumers making a run on the banks before they failed.

In Search of the American Dream

Hearing this, Grand Pappy McCain quit the Presidential Election and vowed to return to congress to "Save Amerika!"

This created a big problem as no one in modern times had ever dropped out of the race this late in the game.
This is where Governor Mit comes in as he did offer the

In Search of the American Dream

NRC to step in and take over the campaign that had just weeks left to go.

He explained that he was willing to step in as he still had a storage shed over in Jersey City filled with campaign posters, buttons and brochures...while explaining that he had a ton of money from sending

all those 100,000s of good Amerikan Jobs over to the new great Amerikan Industrial Heartland (right outside of Wuhan) in cooperation with his little CCP Buddies.

Then the next week, Grand Pappy was back; he held a press conference and told Amerika that he was just

In Search of the American Dream

"Punking" us and wanted to show us what America would be like without him.

Governor Mit never recovered from this slight and even thought the RNC was ready to take up his offer but was caught in the legalize that Grand Pappy was the official candidate. To this story, he did come back with a plan to save Amerika that revolved around the CEO Lady from E-Buyer who was a most senior economic advisor and who might have gone on to be the Secretary of Labor in an upcoming Grand Pappy Administration.

She had just written a book on how to become a EBuyer

In Search of the
American Dream
millionaire by selling all their shit on E-Buyer.
At the press conference he announced that if elected he would commission her to work with all human services, NGOs and other gov't agencies to create a
"Welfare to E-Buyer Millionaire Training Course" where all poor

people will get extensive tutoring and workshops to prepare them to become independently wealthy in Online Retail Sales.

He lost the election and more than a few said that he lost not due to a concern of his advanced age but, rather that his plan to save Amerika was batshit crazy!

In Search of the American Dream

As a point of reference is the simple fact that his plan was latter adopted and promoted in several of the large Democratically run and dually looted cities.

The main failing of this theory was the failure to understand that poor people have very limited shit worth selling and after they

run out of things to sell; there was a dramatic increasing in home robberies as poor people tried to increase their supply chain access to things worth selling – good shit sells!
These programs later died in silence and no one with any thought of a career in politics would dare mention.

In Search of the
American Dream
“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”
2008 was a watershed year for many of us...it was a time when America showed how NOT racist (to its core as some would have you believe these days) it really was by electing its first African American President by a large percentage of the nation's voters who saw him not by his race but, by the promise(s) that he offered.

In Search of the American Dream

“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”

That was the year that I put an 18 year civil service career at risk for standing up against a racist manager (a Latino guy who didn't like Blacks) and I lost because his brother was better connected to leadership than I ever was...the old white guy! Oh Well...it was just 18 years! 2008 was also the year that I worked to elect our first

In Search of the American Dream

"ANOTHER WAY TO SAY"

African American President by creating a website with animated videos against the old guard (white guy) that was running against him (John McCain).

I made a little money but, it started me on the path to where I am today (old, broke and yet again, an economic field slave to my Corporate Slave Masters @ Plantation WWWG (where my

In Search of the American Dream

“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”

main slave masters are WWWG's Cadre of Socialist Accountants who are also former CCP Accountants who got banished for being so...like totally mean/cruel).

The webpage is still up on Youser Tubber under the user name norrthslope21...

The videos (today) are the watered down versions of what

In Search of the American Dream

"ANOTHER WAY TO SAY"

was originally created as the RNC and Governor Mitt (can't use his name in videos as his lawyers will threaten lawsuits as Mitty copyrighted his full name) tried to "CANCEL" me...to banish me from social media.
I had developed a technique of animating photographs, mixed it with a voice-corrected soundtrack and compiled their

In Search of the American Dream

actual comments into a single video.

I thought they were humorist but the NRC complained to the Corporate Thugs from Googlee (who had just bought Youber Tubber) that the videos were TOO realistic and many might mistake them for actual news reports and Mitty's people said that I was in copyright

In Search of the
American Dream
"ANOTHER WAY TO SAY"
infringement over using his name and image without paying a royalty.

After much heated debate about
"FREEDOM of SPEECH" (which actually meant something in those days) I agreed to redo the video and to dumb them down to their current level where not even Little Stevie Wonder (sorry...I am musically stuck in

In Search of the American Dream

“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”

1963, when Stevie was just a little, talented kid singing for his supper) couldn't mistake them for actual CNN Broadcasts.

2008 was also the first time I retired and I came home to Thailand...

2008, I voted for Obama as I thought he was the best of the new generation and better looking than Jackie Robinson.

In Search of the American Dream

"ANOTHER WAY TO SAY"

In 2012....I voted for Dick Gregory as he was one of the smartest, common sense guys around and he needed the gig - being an old comedian is a tuff trip and now, a full contact sport!

One thing of interest that I discovered was that Georgie Bush and Charles Manson sound exactly the same on tape!

In Search of the
American Dream
“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”

I was doing a video where Georgie was upset at Little Sister Sara about her rude comments at the VP Debate and I wasn't happy with the soundtrack then, I found a soundboard of Charlie and by damn...they both have that West Texas Twang to their voice that makes them sound like kissing cousins and in those days, most of America couldn't tell them apart by their actions either – except Georgie made Charlie seem bush league by comparison (this was before his current Dem rehabilitation as Michele's buddy).

In Search of the American Dream

So...Please to all my WOKE Social Warrior Haters...look at the total sum of a person before you start running you mouth of pure hate...in the end, when the truth gets told...people will see you all for what you really are...whinny children of privilege who have never done anything but, talk Schiff about people they never met...

American Dream

It is true that I have never been trolled by working class folks (of any background) as they don't have time to troll as they have

American Dream
“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”
to go to work to earn of living and feed their families...
Maybe, someday, we will decide to quit being played by our social betters – the corporate gangsters who control us by dividing us and realize that as poor people we have more in common than we do with all these whinny, WOKE Warriors

In Search of the
American Dream
“ANOTHER WAY TO SAY”

who think that with their superior education that they can tell us how to think...

Remember Nancy Reagan and use her famous mantra and just say NO to all this PC WOKE nonsense!
